Texas Changes Unemployment Tax

Arkansas Should Do So in 1941

An official press release from the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission published in the current issue of Texas Weekly (Dallas) says that after this year the tax levied against a business payroll for unemployment-relief will be regulated by the employment record of the individual business. Hope business houses, stores and industries, and their employees, will recollect that this is known as the "merit rating system," and while Texas will start it in 1941 the State of Arkansas won't put it into effect until 1942.

Campaign Goes 'to Industries' for Last Week

Here Are Closing Schedules for Both Roosevelt, Willkie

By the Associated Press—The great industrial centers of the nation become the vote hunting ground for President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie in this final full week of campaigning.

Mr. Roosevelt packed up Sunday night to head for New York and the first of three political addresses this week.

Roosevelt Monday

Monday night's speech at Madison Square Garden will give him his first platform opportunity to reply, if he chooses, to John L. Lewis, who on last Friday night asked the country's workers to support Willkie. On Wednesday, Mr. Roosevelt will talk at Boston to bid for the votes of New England's labor millions. He will round out the week with a talk at Cleveland on Saturday night.

Willkie's trail for the week winds among other places, through West Virginia where live many members of Lewis' United Mine Workers. The republican nominee will first journey through Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, then, after the swing through West Virginia, travel east. This will bring him into Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and thence back to the New York area, thence setting for almost all presidential campaign endings.

Batteries of speakers will supplement the addresses of the two presidential nominees. At least three cabinet members are set down for talks during the week in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt. Secretary Hull will make his first campaign address with a 15-minute radio talk (8:45 p. m. CST) (NBC-MBS) on Friday night.

Secretary Lick will speak twice at Salt Lake City on Monday night (11 p. m. CST) on an NBC Pacific coast hookup and again at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Friday night (8:30 p. m. MBS). Secretary Wickard will talk at Saline, Kansas, deep in the nation's farm land on Tuesday night (9:20 p. m. CST, CBS).

Henry A. Wallace, democratic vice presidential nominee, will campaign

Single Primary for City to Be Held on Dec. 10

None of Municipal Races Have More Than Two Candidates

With the Saturday night filing deadline already passed Hope's municipal politics settled down Monday for a campaign which will end in a single Democratic primary election December 10.

The preferential primary, originally scheduled for November 26, was automatically dropped when completion of the candidate list Saturday night disclosed none of the races have more than two candidates. Local authorities apparently are agreed that the double-primary state law requires two-man races to be withheld until the second election—which leaves no one to be voted on in the preferential, but will send all races to the final primary December 10.

Martin Files
The only addition to the list of candidates published in Saturday's Star is the name of Lawrence Martin, who filed late Saturday for the post of alderman in Ward One, opposing J. R. Williams, incumbent.

All incumbents filed for re-election, the offices to be filled this year being: Mayor, municipal judge, city treasurer, and one alderman from each of the four wards. All have opposition, the offices to be filled this year and Syd McMath, alderman in Ward Four.

The Candidates
The complete list of candidates follows:
For Mayor
W. S. Atkins, incumbent.
Albert Graves.
For City Treasurer
Charles Reynerson, incumbent.
J. W. Harper.
For Municipal Judge
W. K. Lemley (unopposed).
Alderman Ward One
Lawrence Martin.
Alderman Ward Two
Luther Garner, incumbent.
F. Y. Trimble.
Alderman Ward Three
Frank Nolen, incumbent.
Ched Hall.
Alderman Ward Four
Syd McMath, (unopposed).

Wilson Case in Supreme Court

Asks Court to Declare Him Judge Nominee

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—John L. Wilson, of Hope, asked the supreme court Monday to declare him the Democratic nominee for county judge of Hempstead county.

He appealed from a Hempstead circuit court ruling declaring Fred A. Luck the winner in the August primary.

The supreme court advanced the case as a matter of public interest, for submission in three weeks.

Electoral College Vote as Yet Remains Uncertain

Fortune Magazine Reports Race Is Close in East

By NEA Service

NEW YORK — President Roosevelt's popularity has dropped about 2 per cent during the last six weeks, but as the campaign entered the home stretch his popularity rating was still 57 per cent among persons with definite opinions on the major party candidates, the latest Fortune Survey of Public Opinion reveals.

This preponderance of opinion does not necessarily indicate an electoral college majority for the President.

His margin of popularity is heavily concentrated in the south and west, where such majorities are not needed. In the more vital areas of New England, the Middle Atlantic and Central States the contest is much closer, with microscopic leads for Willkie.

This means the Republicans may be able to translate their present popular minority into an electoral college majority.

The Fortune Survey has made three separate checks of opinion during the campaign. The first came after Willkie's acceptance and Coffeyville speeches but before the West Coast tour.

The other two sets of interviews were taken later, simultaneously, making use of two cross sections of 5000 people each. These interviews were made after Japan had joined the Axis and while Willkie was speaking in Michigan and in Philadelphia, but before his tour of New England. His western trip was behind him.

The answers to these two cross sections were so completely in agreement—within 1 per cent—that they were averaged and combined to make up a sampling of 10,000 people.

Three-Way Approach Used
In measuring the nation's attitude toward the two major party candidates, Fortune explains, the Survey made a "three-way approach," with the asking of three questions:

1. What do people think of Roosevelt?

2. What do people think of Willkie?

3. How do people expect to vote?

Most important of the three is this:

"Which one of these four statements comes closest to expressing your own opinion of Mr. Roosevelt?"

The question elicited these replies: 1. Twenty-five and a half per cent said "in times like these it is absolutely essential to have a man like Roosevelt for President."

2. Twenty-one and two-tenths per cent said "while Roosevelt has done some good things, the country would be better off under Willkie for the next four years."

4. Nineteen per cent said "the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt for the next four years would be a very bad thing for the country."

5. Six and a half per cent said they didn't know.

If the figures are adjusted to eliminate the "don't know" answers—which may or may not play a role in the election—this comes to a vote of 57 per cent favoring the President, against 43 opposing him.

Willkie Leads in Four Areas
But there are hair-line anti-Roosevelt majorities in four sections of the country, the survey points out. They are in New England, the Middle Atlantic, East North Central and West North Central regions.

These margins, Fortune says, are "too small to be regarded as in themselves statistically significant majorities. Yet the evidence, though inconclusive, puts Willkie in the lead in these four parts of the country."

"Conceivably this would permit Willkie to gain a majority in the electoral college."

Answers to queries on Willkie broke down this way:

1. Eleven and one-tenth per cent said "Willkie is just the man the country needs for president during the next four years."

2. Twenty-six and eight-tenths per cent said "Even though Willkie has not as much political and international experience as he needs, he still would make a better president than Roosevelt."

3. Thirty-six and a half per cent said "Willkie is probably an honest

Turk Troops March to Aid Greeks; Russia May Intervene in Balkans

Turkish Armies, Answering Cry of Help From Greece, Move Into Thrace to Fight Off Italian Invasion

By the Associated Press

Tiny Greece declared war on Italy under the provocation of a three-hour ultimatum Monday and King George the Second threw the nation's estimated 100,000 soldiers into a battle against 200,000 Italian troops along the Greek-Albanian frontier.

Great Britain, pledged to aid Greece in the event of an attack, was reported to be rushing the assistance of her powerful Mediterranean fleet. It is believed that a major sea battle between the British and Italian fleets is imminent. The Greek government, which immediately appealed to London for help, announced officially that Britain was sending "unlimited support."

Rome's demands were reportedly to have demanded manded permission for Fascist troops to occupy "several strategic points in Greek territory for the duration of the war."

In Belgrade, diplomatic circles heard unconfirmed reports that Turkey had declared war on Italy, but this was discounted in other quarters as premature.

Yugoslavia's premier called an emergency cabinet meeting shortly before 11 a. m. and Yugoslav troops with full war equipment marched through the streets of Belgrade toward the railroad station.

Official statements, however, asserted that Yugoslavia would remain neutral.

Rumors of rife in Balkan capitals said that Soviet Russia is preparing to take over the Dardanelles "protectively" to safeguard the strategic passage between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean from any Axis grab.

A synchronized Italian naval attack reportedly struck at the Greek island of Corfu while skirted Greek soldiers stubbornly opposed the onrush of Italians on land.

Attacked by Land and Air

ATHENS—(AP)—Greece attacked by land and air Monday hurled her small army against the strong Italian forces rather than to bow to Italian demands for Greek territory and free passage for Fascist troops.

Italian motorized units thrust across the mountainous Greek and Italian frontier a half hour before expiration of the Italian ultimatum, the Greek communique said.

By noon Athens had undergone two air raid alarms. Corinth and Tatoi airdromes, 12 miles from Athens, were bombed with a toll of four killed and 17 injured.

King George the Second called on the nation to "fight for its hearts to final victory," and declared that, "We have been compelled to go to war against an Italy that is coveting Greece's independence."

British, Turks to Aid

ATHENS—(AP)—The British fleet came to the aid of invaded Greece Monday in the first day of her war with Italy, informed sources said, and took over the strategic island of Crete while Greek's little army fought Italians all along the northern frontier.

British warships were also reported to have engaged Italian naval units in a stiff battle off Corfu and Ionian island just opposite the juncture of the Albanian and Greek frontiers.

Other reports, from reliable neutral sources, said that Turkish troops, responding to the Greek's call for help, were marching into Thrace and eastern Greece.

British to Aid

LONDON—(AP)—Both King George the Sixth and Prime Minister Churchill have promised Greece every possible help against Italian invaders in personal messages to the Greek Sovereign and the Prime Minister, it was learned Monday night.

Hitler-Mussolini Confer

FLORENCE, Italy—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini talked in complete harmony "on all present questions" here Monday.

"Empress Britain" Lost

LONDON—(AP)—Loss of the Empress Britain, 43,348-ton pride of the Canadian merchant fleet, with a probable death list of 45 persons was acknowledged Monday by the British Admiralty and war office and of the 643 on board, 598 had already been landed in British ports, the communique reported.

French Cabinet Shakeup

VICHY—(AP)—Vice-Premier Pierre Laval was named foreign minister Monday to succeed Paul Vaudouin, who became secretary of state attached to presidency of council.

Announcement of the shake-up came in a government communique issued after an urgently-called cabinet session in which Laval left for a trip to Paris for "important discussions."

The Scrap for Scrap

Japan is convinced that the United States is serious about cutting off sales of scrap iron. That is clear from the frantic efforts she is making to buy it up in every corner of the world. Japanese interests are bidding desperately, for instance, for 150,000 tons of scrap to be sold by the Mexican railway and oil administrations. Many Americans have managed to drum up considerable indignation that Mexico would presume to consider such a sale now that the United States has embargoed it.

Mexicans will get a laugh out of that, because of more than 21,500,000 tons of scrap iron and steel exported from the United States since 1933, more than half went to Japan. A country which has sent ten million tons of this essential war material to Japan can scarcely criticize a neighbor country which utilizes for the sale of a mere 150,000 tons. It is even unlikely that so much will actually be sold.

As a matter of fact, the deal is nothing to worry about anyway. Mexico has no great amount of such supplies. The scrap now being sold by the Mexican railway and oil administrations has probably been accumulating for years. There isn't any more, and there isn't likely to be. It simply means that Japan is scrapping the bottom of the barrel in its frantic search for more bombs to dump on the Chinese.

More important is the possibility that Mexico will see increasing quantities of oil and aviation gasoline to the Japanese. At present it is selling around 200,000 barrels a month, and there are desperate efforts to increase this. The grant of an exploratory oil concession to Japanese interests on the Gulf Coast is interesting, but no such concession could readily be developed in time to bear on the Chinese war unless Japan thinks that the war is going to last a long, long time. Mercury and antimony are also being sold in Mexico to German interests, which send them to Japan, thereby dividing the materials. It is a perfect legal trade, and there is nothing the United States can do to prevent it except buy the materials itself.

As long as the controversy over the exportation of American oil properties in Mexico continues unadjusted, it seems likely that Mexico must continue to sell what it can where it can. This pressing problem seems certain to be a legacy to the incoming Avila Camacho regime in Mexico and to whatever administration is in office here after January 20.

Bruce Catton Says:

By BRUCE CATTON, NEA Washington Correspondent

Veteran Recalled for Consultation on Existing Plan

WASHINGTON—Few men have ever traveled 6000 miles just to keep a lunch date. But one of the big reasons for the hurried trip Admiral James O. Richardson recently made from Hawaii to Washington was a quiet luncheon party arranged for him at the White House.

Three men sat down at the table—Admiral Richardson, head of the U. S. fleet; President Roosevelt, his commander-in-chief; and Gov. William D. Leahy of Puerto Rico, who was the navy's top admiral until his retirement a little over a year ago.

The party didn't break up early. It lasted most of the afternoon, in fact. And the principal topic was the far Eastern situation—in plainer English, the danger of war with Japan and the things the U. S. Navy ought to do if that war should come.

Leahy Devised War Plan

It was Governor Leahy's presence that was especially significant. Back in 1937 Leahy, wearing the broad stripe and the three narrow ones of a full admiral, was chief of naval operations. The Japanese, constantly widening the scope of their "China incident," swung into action with a bombardment of Shanghai. The White House hesitated for a week or more, weighing the chances. Then it called Admiral Leahy into conference.

Leahy was told that the United States and England might—just might—take joint action against Japan: action of the kind that could mean war. He was instructed to draw up a plan for use in such emergency.

He came back, after consultation with the war plans section at the Navy Department, with a plan which called for a light naval blockade. The blockade line would be draped between Hawaii and Singapore, one end resting on America's greatest naval base, the other resting on Britain's.

The plan envisaged a strong Britain contribution—probably half a dozen capital ships, with accompanying lighter craft, to hold down the British end of the line. It gave the U. S. British fleets a two to one superiority in the waters where the fighting would be done.

Joint action didn't take place, and the plan was dropped. But Leahy, the man who devised it—not Admiral Harold R. Stark, the present chief of naval operations—was the man who was invited to lunch with Admiral Richardson at the White House when the Far Eastern situation was canvassed.

The Pacific situation has changed since Leahy originally drew up the plan. Britain hasn't any six battle ships to spare for Singapore. Point is, though, that that old plan did have Singapore in it.

Meanwhile, Leahy is again working for Puerto Rico.

But—the understanding is pretty clear that if trouble comes in the Orient, and it becomes necessary to oust off that old war plan or something like it, Leahy will be back in the Navy and will be boss of the job.

This doesn't necessarily mean that Admiral Stark would be replaced as chief of naval operations. The White House admires Stark as a capable administrator and a good man on the organizational side. He tends to be cautious, however, where Leahy is more the damn-the-torpedoes type. Belief now is that Stark would remain in his present job and that the new one would be invented for Leahy—possibly chairmanship of a joint army-navy board of direct strategy.

"Loosen" means the same as "unloosen."

Camden District of Arkansas Federated Music Club Meets in Hope

Forty-seven members of music clubs in the Camden district of the Arkansas Federation came to Hope Saturday to attend the district meeting of that organization. Among those present were all of the officers of the district, the President, Mrs. E. E. Williams of Texarkana; 1st Vice President, Mrs. J. L. Seales of El Dorado; 2nd Vice President, Miss Elizabeth Copeland of Camden; 3rd Vice President, Mrs. M. I. Alcorn of Magnolia; Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Carlton of Hope; Historian, Mrs. E. C. Chappel of Ashdown; Parliamentarian, Mrs. J. M. McGee of Texarkana; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Ruth Lovett of Texarkana, and Junior Counselor, Mrs. Gordon White of Camden.

The program opened at the Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning with Mrs. Edwin Stewart playing the Processional "God Bless America." The invocation was given by Dr. Thomas Brewster, followed by greeting from Mayor W. S. Atkins. Mrs. Erselle Harper of Stamps gave the response.

The program chairman, Mrs. Dick Watkins gave the announcements for the day. "Our Goal" was the subject of the address given by Miss Maud Crumpler, president of the Arkansas Federated Music Club. Mrs. J. L. Seales gave a review of the activities of the Camden district. The future of the Camden district was discussed by Miss Copeland, and "Why Federate" was the topic discussed by Mrs. M. O. Alcorn.

The district president spoke on "Our Slogan" before the opening of the business session. At that time the aims of the year were listed. Among the most outstanding were: the federation will publish a bulletin of Arkansas composers with small biographies of each, they will encourage student musicians by awarding scholarships, make efforts to bring music to the rural schools, will organize new clubs at Prescott, Lewisville, Foreman, and DeQuincy, and will reorganize the Gordon club.

It was voted to have the next meeting in Camden. At noon the visitors were honored guests at a luncheon in the private dining room of the Hotel Barlow. The state officers and guest artists were seated at the head of the U-shaped table which was decorated artistically with various autumn flowers. Mrs. Jean of Shreveport, who is president of the Louisiana federation, was one of the guest vocalists as was Mrs. Kenneth H. Spore of Hope. Miss Helen Healey, an instructor of music at St. Vincent's in Shreveport, was also an outstanding pianist performing. "Music" was certainly the theme of the luncheon, for everything said was sung. Mrs. Pratt Bacon of Texarkana was the toastmistress.

The public was invited to the afternoon program held at the church. The program follows: Collect—Miss Crumpler. Piano Preludes, Op. 28, No. 7 and No. 29. A. & M. Music Club, Magnolia—Miss Alma Dean Lester. Voice—The Rosary—Nevin—Ah Sweet Mystery of Life—Mrs. Hendrix Spraggins. Music Story, Miss Mary Louise Keith—Friday Musical, Hope. ## SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Questioning Martin about the shadow on her window, Braitwood discovers it was Adam. Martin tells him then, of Adam's long fight against the narcotic habit, his victory, and the attempt to prove himself cured. A plague of fever in Capetown ruined all that. She had offered to marry Adam. But a guilty conscience item, and the fact of her letter to reach him, left Adam believing she had abandoned him. He married Pat.

PAT EXPLAINS A FIRE

CHAPTER XVIII

CLAD in an orange boucle suit and framed in the green shrubbery as she sat on a garden bench, Patricia Langdon looked like a tropical bird. Even Braitwood admitted she was attractive.

He thought Pat selfish. Had she really loved Craig Gundrum she would not have married Adam. A professor's salary, while not comparable with a fortune such as Adam Langdon's, was still sufficient for two if real love were present.

For Adam, he did not believe she cared the least. Nor did he believe that Adam would have married any girl, knowing he was a drug addict, had not that addiction sapped his morale.

An air of relief characterized Pat. As Sidney dropped into a seat beside her, he guessed rightly—that she had been thinking of the fortune she would soon inherit. The unpleasant notoriety they must all shoulder, but that would pass and her short month as Adam Langdon's bride would be but a dark memory.

"I shall live in Capetown when this is over," she told Braitwood. "The sooner an ocean separates me from this blood-stained old house, the sooner I shall forget the unhappiness it has brought me."

"Your people are in Africa now, aren't they?" he asked.

"Yes," she replied. "What legal formalities must a wife go through after an estate is settled, Mr. Braitwood?"

For a few moments they discussed legal matters, then Sidney asked: "Did you know that the autopsy had revealed a considerable amount of morphine in Adam's system, Mrs. Langdon?"

"Oh—I feared that might happen," she admitted in a startled way. "Adam had the habit. Or did you know it?"

"Recently I learned of it," Sidney confessed. "I understand you had planned to send him to a sanitarium?"

FOR the first time, Pat lost her poise. Her crimson lips quivered and her hands locked in an effort at self-control. She did not ask how Braitwood had obtained his knowledge. Probably she assumed that Adam himself had communicated it to his lawyer.

"You have not much sympathy with me, Mr. Braitwood," she said. "Don't pretend. I hardly blame you. You were Adam's friend. But if you would try to understand what marriage to a man who was all but a maniac meant, you would know I had little choice but to have him put away."

"You think there was more than an excessive use of drugs troubling him?"

"I don't know, really. I have never been associated with a person who used drugs. But I do know that more than half the time he was not rational. When deprived of the drug he was like a madman."

"Yesterday I had found his supply of narcotics and burned it. I upset his desk in my search. That explains the charred papers you and Hugh found in the grate. He had tubes of the stuff in cardboard boxes. Craig says there may be some way of telling what was burned from the ash."

"Do you know where Adam got the drugs? Such habits often lead to unpleasant associations. They may even have a bearing on the murder."

"I don't know, really. I've heard him telephone New York and ask for the 'doctor.' He's said that he wanted his last prescription refilled and sent down. I remember the number."

"Did he know that you had burned his supply?"

"Yes. He was furious. I was actually afraid. He locked himself in the jungle and refused to go for a drive. When Nella went down to coax him, there was a scene. I believe he struck her. When he realized where his fury had brought him, he became contrite and joined us. . . . That

Arkansas Beer Industry
Makes Jobs, Swells State's Revenue, Buys Rice, Lumber and Aluminum!

WITHOUT the taxes and broad economic benefits of beer (a wholesome beverage of moderation), the budgets of both Arkansas and thousands of Arkansans would be anything but balanced.

Did you ever stop to consider how the tax from Arkansas' beer industry helps to balance the state's budget and relieves the citizens of burdensome taxes? For instance:

1. Since the legalization of beer in 1933, beer taxes have swelled Arkansas treasury receipts by $2,640,417.60.
2. Because of the additional consumer's sales tax on beer, revenue during the past fiscal year alone totaled $956,235.79.
3. More than an estimated 8,000 workers in Arkansas wholesale and retail beer establishments received paychecks annually totaling $7,000,000.00.
4. Arkansas farmers supplied a substantial portion of the 4,407,000 bushels of rice used in brewing during the 1939 fiscal year.
5. Arkansas lumber furnishes a large quantity of the wood used in manufacturing beer barrel staves and barrel heading.
6. Arkansas is the leading producer of bauxite for commercial aluminum purposes; and, since legalization, the beer industry has bought more than 400,000 aluminum barrels.
7. Countless other types of business benefit directly from the brewing industry. They include transportation lines, auto sales companies, real estate operators, food purveyors, building and maintenance industries, local labor and many others.

To protect these substantial economic benefits for Arkansas and its citizens, the brewers are conducting a "Clean Up or Close Up" campaign. The actions of their committee are aimed directly at the few retailers who use their beer licenses to cloak illegal, unethical and objectionable practices which reflect unjustly upon the entire industry.

YOU CAN AID in this progressive movement by patronizing only those retail outlets which are conducted in accord with the law and public sentiment in your community.

may be how she got the bruise behind her ear."

THE sound of a closing door drew their attention to the house. Hugh Langdon descended the steps and approached them. He looked ill. The muscles about his large, kindly mouth had tightened into bitterness; his broad shoulders sagged and he appeared to have lost weight in the short 24 hours since his cousin's murder.

"Hugh is hard hit," Sidney said in a low voice.

A glint of sympathy troubled Pat's bright eyes. "Hugh is a remarkable person," she said, with more feeling than he had yet seen her display.

"Plowman insists Nella be examined for the state by a doctor of his own choosing," Hugh told them. "I objected, thinking that in her condition, further questioning could only aggravate her trouble. What about the legal side of it, Sid?"

"Nella is under age and, according to Adam's will, you and I are her guardians, Hugh," Sidney explained. "For a time, if the doctor we have selected agrees with us, we can prevent outside interference."

"I imagine Dr. Bowman will agree," Hugh said slowly. "It is my hope that she will throw off the psychic dumbness when she awakens, so that she can undergo questioning in her normal mind."

"As her lawyer, I'll be with her, in any case. I'll see Plowman at once."

SIDNEY found the captain in the drawing room. After he had agreed to defer a consultation, Plowman revealed he had Boris Lesencoff on his mind.

"Could this fellow, Lesencoff, have struck Miss Langdon and then faked a dive and a rescue when he saw you, Mr. Braitwood?" he asked.

"Impossible. I saw the entire business, and I swear that I saw him long before he saw me."

"His turning up here is unusual. I'll check on his alibi," the captain growled.

"As routine it is necessary, but in my opinion you may count him out," Sidney replied. "He comes into this inquiry only as a man who rescued Nella Langdon from possible drowning."

"You can never tell in a murder case. According to reports I have just received, Lesencoff would have been glad to have Langdon out of his way. He was in love with Miss Hemphield, himself."

Marshall News for Willkie Texas Newspaper Declares for Republican

MARSHALL, Texas — The Marshall News-Messenger, traditionally a Democratic paper, announced editorially Sunday that it would support Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate.

In announcing its choice for president, the newspaper said "it does not feel that it is abandoning any traditional loyalty but... is upholding a principle of much longer standing and of much more vital importance to free Americans than that of blindly following the label of a political party whose principles already have been altered beyond recognition."

The paper said it supported President Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936. "In opposing his re-election in 1940, it opposes not so much the individual as the theory of the indispensable man and the abandonment of a great democratic principle," the editorial said.

Marshall is the home of Myron G. Blalock, democratic national committeeman from Texas and state leader of the third-term campaign.

last through the week, his speaking schedule starting on Monday night at Omaha (2:30 p. m. CST, MBS) and including a speech at an American Labor Party rally in New York on Thursday night (7:30 p. m. NBC).

Republican Schedule

The Republican National Committee's speaking list includes former President Herbert Hoover and the man who was his democratic opponent in the 1928 presidential election, former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. Mr. Hoover will speak at Salt Lake City on Friday (9 p. m. EST, MBS). Smith, who already has made several speeches in behalf of Willkie, will speak at Boston Thursday (8 p. m. EST, MBS).

Senator Charles E. McNary of Oregon, the republican vice presidential nominee, will make talks at Salt Lake City on Friday (4 p. m. CST, special network), and at Sacramento, Calif., on Saturday (11 p. m. CST, MBS coast hookup).

Other republican talks will include one by Senator Taft of Ohio at East Liverpool, Ohio, on Wednesday (8 p. m. CST, NBC), and two by Thomas E. Dewey, of New York at Peoria, Ill., on Monday (8 p. m. CST, NBC), and at Kansas City on Saturday (8:45 p. m. MBS).

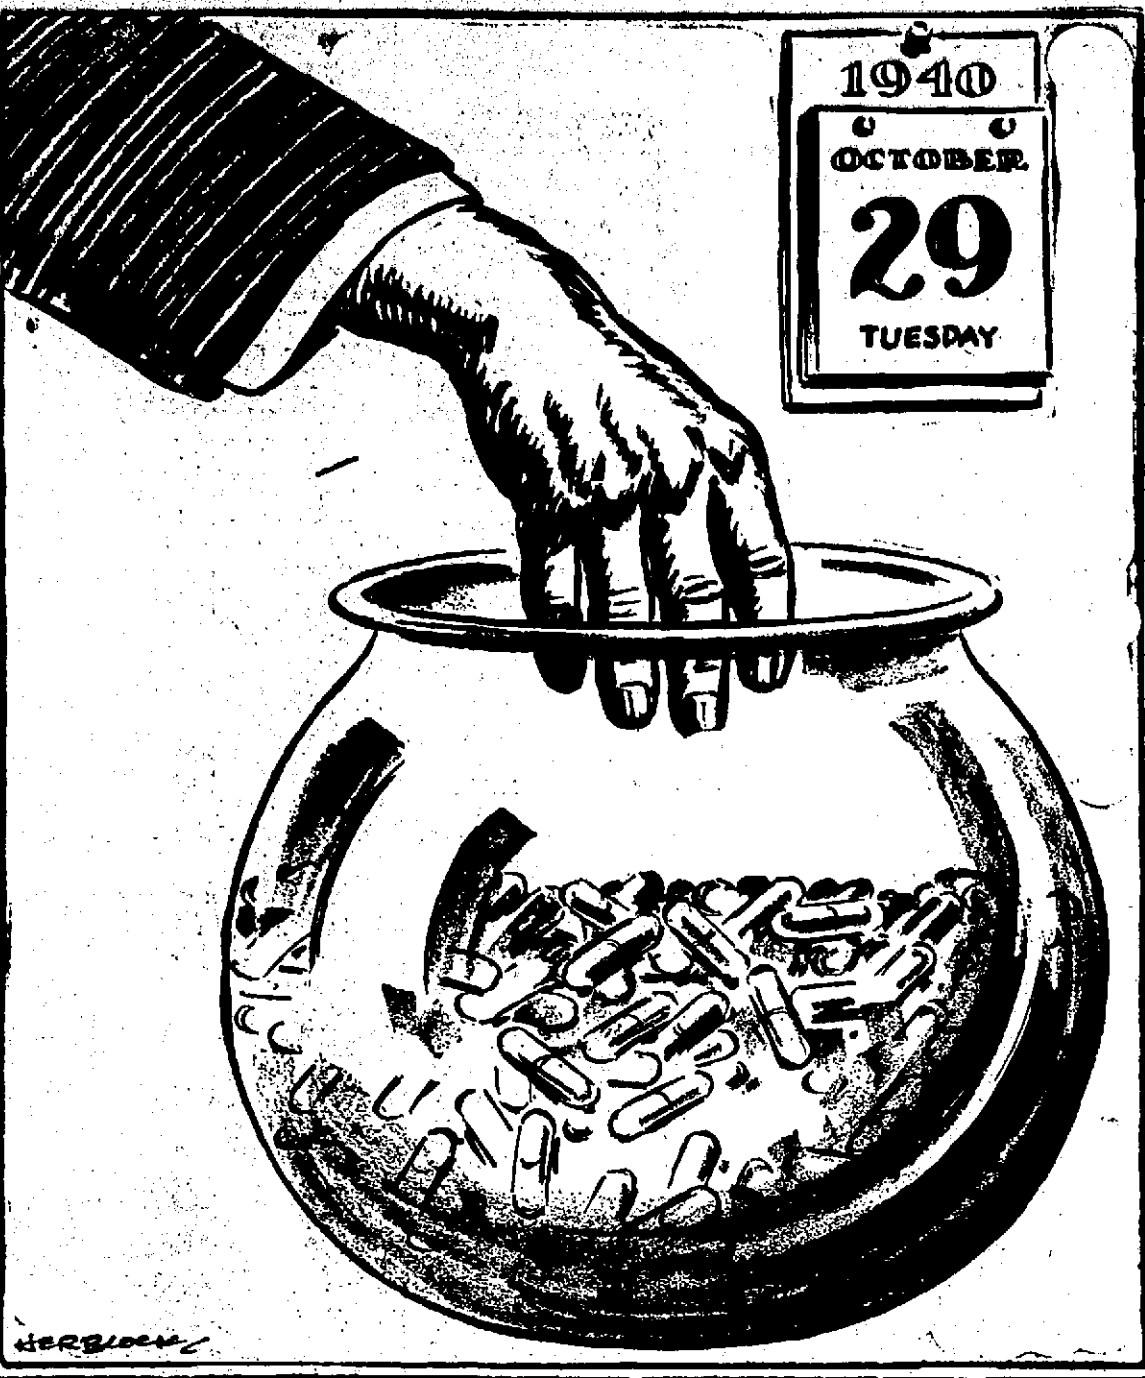

The start of the week also brought these other political developments:

The Republican National Committee made public a statement by James F. Barrett, American Federation of Labor organizer in the South, which the committee said answered "the smear attacks on the labor record of Wendell Willkie."

In connection with Willkie's former presidency of Commonwealth and Southern, of which the Georgia Power company is a subsidiary, Barrett's statement said:

"Labor relations existing between the Georgia Power company and the American Federation of Labor affiliates employed by that concern are frequently and effectively used by organizers and union officials and spokesmen through the South as conclusive evidence that labor and industry can cooperate, through collective bargaining, to the best interests of all concerned."

Emil Dieve, a vice president of the CIO, in a radio address discussing Lewis' support of Willkie, said the CIO chief was "a tragic lost leader" returning of "the outmoded philosophy of the republican party."

Jap Embargo in Mexico Lifted

Nation Says It Can't Afford to Lose Business

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—Highly placed government and diplomatic officials reported Sunday night that President Cardenas' administration had decided to lift the short-lived unofficial embargo on exports destined for Japan because the ban threatened to upset the nation's economy at this time.

The principal fear of the sources disclosing this decision was that it would be misunderstood in the United States.

Mexico originally placed restrictions on shipments to Japan as a gesture of solidarity with the United States because of Japanese-American tension in the Pacific, and one government spokesman emphasized: One diplomatic source said "the present embargo is being lifted because Mexico had good intentions, but did not stop to think what they would cost."

He said he believed conversations between the government and the United States for an embargo on essential war materials and food-stuffs to Japan would be undertaken after President-Elect Manuel Avila Camacho enters office December 1.

Mexican producers and exporters were caught with heavy commitments on their hands when the secret restrictions were clamped on last week. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of goods were involved.

The ban caused the bottom to fall out of export commodities. Protests poured into the ministry of national economy and foreign office.

Dedicate New Courthouse 3,000 Attend Ceremony at Jasper, Newton Co.

HARRISON—More than 3,000 persons attended the dedication of Newton county's new fireproof courthouse, a WPA project, at Jasper over the week-end.

The program opened with a concert by Harrison High School band. Congressman Clyde T. Ellis explained the origin and purpose of the WPA. Newton county contributed $12,371 to building the courthouse and the federal government contributed $29,761, bringing the total cost to $42,132.

A. B. Arbaugh, superintendent of Jasper schools, was master of ceremonies. Judge Garner Frazier of Clinton explained the importance of the new structure for housing official records. Mrs. May Belevins, state director, WPA professional service, explained the various divisions of WPA. Frank Kirk, Fort Smith district WPA supervisor, also spoke.

The building, 60 by 90 feet, is of native gray stone quarried from the bed of the Little Buffalo river near Jasper. It replaces a building that burned two years ago.

Scout Drive Gets Underway

Troop 66 Sponsored by Hope Tabernacle Church

Be your own boss. C. B. TYLER, sponsoring Troop No. 66 of the Boy Scouts of America, and as the pastor of the sponsoring institution for this troop, I am happy to have the privilege of saying a good word for Scouting. Even though Troop No. 66 is sponsored by my church, the membership in that troop is not limited to boys of any particular church. All are welcome, and we have in our troop more boys from other denominations than from our own. I mention this to emphasize that Scouting is non-sectarian. But Scouting is thoroughly religious. One of the Scout laws is "A Scout is reverent. He is reverent towards God, he is faithful to his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion."

The Boy Scouts of America teach the fine principles of Americanism to boys. We need to hear more of that now. But, as the same time, we need to have the emphasis likewise placed on the religious point of view. While we are emphasizing citizenship, we need to emphasize character building. The Boy Scouts of America is the ideal organization for boys because it emphasizes both citizenship and character. It is the reason that the Hope Gospel Tabernacle is proud to be the sponsor of a Boy Scout troop, and I am happy to have this opportunity to attest the fact that both personally and also as the head of the sponsoring institution of Troop No. 66, I believe in the principles and the practices of the Boy Scouts of America, and I hope that we will see Scouting continue to grow in this community, just as it has grown for the past several years," the Rev. J. E. Hamill said Monday.

"The Hope Gospel Tabernacle is

Postpone Call for the 153d

Guard Not to Be Called Out Until January

CONWAY—Col. H. L. McAllister, commander of the 153d regiment, Arkansas National Guard, said over the week-end the regiment will not be mobilized until early in January.

It is reported that Camp Robinson will not be ready for the regiment before January 3, and possibly not before January 19.

Colonel McAllister said the Board of Trustees of the Arkansas State Teachers College has decided it will not be necessary to grant a year's leave of absence to him as president. His salary as president will be discontinued during his army service, but Colonel McAllister volunteered to continue general supervision over the administration of the college and to spend some of his time as possible in his office at the college. He plans also to set up a temporary office in Little Rock.

P. T. A. to Hold Book Review

Mrs. Jackson to Talk on "The English Air"

The High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a Book Review at the City Hall on Tuesday afternoon, October 29, at 3:00 o'clock. Mrs. R. E. Jackson will review the book, "The English Air," by D. E. Stevenson.

Mrs. Jackson has reviewed a number of books for different organizations in Hope, and has been so interesting in this work that her talent has been in demand for the past two years. This is an opportunity for a profitable afternoon as well as helping the High School Parent-Teacher Association in meeting its budget for the year. The review will last approximately an hour, which will enable those attending to get home before long shadows of the evening fall.

A small admission price of twenty five cents will be charged.
